Dear Jim:

The [redacted] recently recommended that you be authorized to furnish [redacted] Municipality a list of employees which they desire for tax purposes. On the assumption that the recommendation was based on incomplete knowledge of the [redacted] tax case the [redacted] has been furnished full details, and has been advised that the Chief, [redacted] is being authorized to present a list of personnel to the Municipality if he considers this to be desirable.

I feel that any such decision as this can only be properly made by you after a first hand appraisal of the local situation as it exists when the decision is made. This authorization is not to be construed as a directive to furnish such a list. Any such action on your part must be based on very careful consideration of all the factors involved, including possible effect on employee morale, whether it might lead to further demands by local authorities, effect on current efforts to arrange repair of the entrance road, and all other factors which are known to you. Your decision will receive the support of this office.

Sincerely,

25X1A9a
